After a Listing has been Marked as Moved, What Next.

After a Listing has been Marked as Moved, What Next?

Between 1 to 3 days following a Google listing being marked as “moved”, these things will happen:

1. No one will be able to locate the listing because it will totally disappear from Google Search and Google Maps. Nobody will find it – accidentally or on purpose.
2. Because no one can find the listing, a “permanently closed” message will not appear, either.
3. The OLD location – with a 302 HTTP status code - is now set by Google for the Maps URL. When the Maps URL for the old location is loaded, you will be forwarded to the NEW location.
4. Any reviews for the listing that has been closed SHOULD automatically be transferred to the NEW listing. Important Note: Follow up to make certain that this does happen.
5. The Map Maker listing for the former location will not vanish. However, it will be pretty much impossible to locate unless you have the specific URL and the old CID number. Since Map Maker does not have a MOVED status, the listing will stay, but will display the “PERMANENTLY CLOSED” status.

It is vital that everyone working in Local SEO completely comprehends the BEST way to treat duplicates within Map Maker.

They must record the CID numbers for every listing that they find. If you have the CID number, it's possible to locate the Map Maker listing for the employee who has moved. It is not possible to locate the info without the CID number.

It is believed that Google is working to find a solution so that its users may present the edited information through Google Maps. This way, it wouldn't require people to get in touch with Google My Business whenever this change is required.

At the moment, a "Moved" button shows up on Google Maps beneath the "Suggest an Edit" option. Supposedly, there should also be a box below that, which lets you add the correct data for the new location. At this moment, that box is not visible.

Clicking the "Moved elsewhere" button won't fix the issue, and does not make the "Permanently Closed" listing go away, either. The big, red bar that reads "PERMANENTLY CLOSED" still shows up.

Simply pressing the “Moved elsewhere” button will not accomplish what I described above, and won’t help the “Permanently closed” listing disappear. I believe pressing the button results in the little red “Relocated” message that appears in the Local Finder.

However, the listing itself on Google Maps and the search results still has that huge, red “closed” label.
